

+ What is this Policy About?

Update Effective: September 13, 2024

S&P Global Inc. and its affiliates and brands including Market Intelligence, Ratings, Commodity Insights, Dow Jones Indices, Mobility and Sustainable¹ (collectively or individually, as applicable, referred to as "S&P Global", "we", "our", "us") respect your right to privacy. This global Corporate Privacy Policy ("Policy") explains who we are, how we collect, share, transfer and use personal information about you, and how you can exercise your privacy rights. This Policy applies to interactions we have with you via our websites, applications and other products and services including events, where you otherwise contact us and where we otherwise display or link to this Policy ("Services") or in the course of our receipt of products or services from you or your employer.

Please note that some privacy rights and obligations may differ in certain locations based on applicable local data protection laws. We have included supplemental information for certain jurisdictions in this Policy. Third parties that link from or to our Services, or from whom we collect personal information may have their own privacy policies and practices. This Policy does not apply to sites or applications offered by other companies or individuals, including third party products and services, that may be displayed as content in a search on our website. Please review any third-party policies to learn more about their practices.

To the extent a notice provided at the time of collection from a website or specific product conflicts with this Policy, the terms of that specific notice or supplemental privacy statement will apply.

If you enter into a separate agreement with us which requires, or contemplates, collecting, sharing, transferring, using or otherwise processing information about you in a manner that is different than that which is described in this Policy, the terms of that agreement will apply.

For more about the S&P Global's commitment to privacy, please see the privacy mission statement and resources at: <https://www.spglobal.com/en/privacy/our-privacy-commitment.html>.

+ What does S&P Global Do?

+ What Personal Information Does S&P Global Collect and Why?

The information that we collect from or about you - some of which is personal information under applicable data protection laws - falls into the following broad categories:

1. Information that you provide to us

As part of our Services, you may provide certain information to us, such as your contact details, user credentials, and employment information.

A few examples include when you fill out an on-line form to register to use our Services, such as to attend an event, to request a free trial or courtesy newsletter, or to receive research, white papers, product information, or reports through our website. You may also provide us with your business card information or other contact information as you conduct business with us, or you request information from us. Information we ask you for and why we ask you for it includes:

Types of personal information	Why we collect it
Billing information (including your payment card information)	To maintain your account with us and to provide you with requested products and services. For order processing and to provide transaction documents.
Contact details such as name, telephone numbers (which may include cell/mobile numbers), email address and postal address and details of any correspondence between us.	To respond to your communications and inquiries, such as when you want to learn more about our conferences and webinars. To provide product service updates, information and alerts. To contact you for information verification purposes. To gather information needed to provide and deliver maintenance, support, and training for Services requested by you or your employer. To obtain your feedback regarding our Services, including an event you attended, such as when we or our agents send you a customer satisfaction survey. To receive services from you or the corporate entity you represent.
User credentials including name, email address, signature and any personal login information you provide to us when you create a profile, such as details of your education and your gender. Some product platforms also allow users to upload data themselves including age, race, color, ancestry, national origin, citizenship, religion or creed, marital status, sex (including gender, gender identity, pregnancy or childbirth and related medical conditions) sexual orientation, veteran or military status, for their updates, information and alerts.	To set up and maintain your user account. To monitor and enforce compliance with our contract terms. To enable clients to use our product platforms for their own purposes.
Employer and employment information such as job title, company affiliation, function, seniority, department and location of your office.	To manage your individual user account when it is covered by an account of an S&P Global corporate customer, such as the corporate account of your employer.
Your preferences and interests, such as emails and newsletters you would like to receive, or have opted out from receiving, or the markets, industries and conferences that interest you.	To enable us to send you tailored information on our Services across our divisions that may interest you, to allow you to participate voluntarily in mailings and other events and to allow us to promote our events and Services.

We may record (voice or audio) and/or collect images of you, provided that you do not object (and that you have opted in where required by law), for example at an in-person or virtual event. In some instances, we may also use technology to create automated transcriptions.	To provide the event content to individuals who were not able to attend the live event, to promote our events in live recordings, or to otherwise provide event content.
Social security/official identification number, state identification card number, credit card numbers, and personal financial data (such as specific salary, mortgage details, net worth or individual portfolio information). We refer to this type of personal information as "Customer Financial Data".	In some cases, our corporate customer, such as a structured finance issuer or you, may provide Customer Financial Data to us for the purpose of informing our statistical analysis or for our use in providing our Services. Customer Financial Data will not be used for purposes other than these and will not be rented or otherwise made available to third parties for public distribution. For conducting due diligence activities for financial institutions and other regulated companies as part of our know-your-client products.
Issues, questions and problems you have when using our Services, your user preferences and how you use or want to use our Services and information which you seek to analyze or manipulate within our Services and which you communicate to our support, maintenance and training staff. We may also record telephone service calls with you, subject to an announcement at the beginning of the call. In some instances, we may also use technology to create automated transcriptions.	To maintain your account with us, provide technical support to that account, remedy issues or problems with that account, train you in the use of our Services and keep an auditable record of all such communications and actions which is accessible to our support, maintenance and training staff globally.

2. Information that we collect automatically

We may collect information automatically from your device, including information regarding how you use our Services. Where required by law, we will obtain your consent before we place any cookies on your device that are not strictly necessary for the functioning of our websites.

Information we may collect automatically includes your log-in events (when, how and for how long you log into and use certain Services), IP or MAC address, device make, model and operating system, mobile network information, internet service provider, unique device identification number, advertising ID, browser type and language, geographic location (e.g., country or city level location or time zone) and other technical information. We may collect "click stream" data, which is information about how your device interacts with our Services, such as the pages, screens, functions, applications and products accessed, and links clicked.

This information helps us understand users of our Services, such as visitors to our websites, the pages they visited, and what content and functions interest them. We use this automatically collected information:

- for our analytics purposes, including to enhance our understanding of usage of our Services;
- to improve the quality and relevance to users of our Services, including (with consent as applicable) by showing or offering users relevant Services or content based on their preferences and usage habits;
- to develop or accelerate research, analysis, news and related editorial content and information collection as part of our Services, or to enable others to develop/accelerate such content where permitted;
- to offer you support with and training on our Services and to help resolve any errors or technical issues; - to develop and update our Services;

- for customer services, such as evaluating our customers' training needs for our products;
- to satisfy requests from S&P Global corporate customers regarding the entitlement to and use of our Services by individual users under their corporate accounts (this information may be offered to clients in an aggregated form and clients may be required by law to request certain information);
- to deliver tailored information on our Services that may be of interest or value to you and to send you marketing and promotional emails with your consent if required by applicable law;
- occasionally, to identify unauthorized use or unauthorized distribution of our Services related or unrelated to a security issue;
- where relevant, to review or update pricing agreed with our customers; and
- for billing purposes, so that we or others (such as our content providers) can bill for the services provided.

Some of this information is collected using cookies, weblogs, web beacons and similar tracking technology - see "How does S&P Global use cookies and similar tracking technology?" for more information.

3. Information that we obtain from other sources

We may receive personal information about you from other sources (including your employer or business partner if you use Services covered by a subscription). Where you register as a user, we will endeavor to check that these third parties have your consent or are otherwise legally permitted or required to disclose your personal information to us.

The information we collect from your employer (if you use our Services under your employer's corporate subscription) consists of your contact details and employment-related information.

We collect personal information from other third parties, such as marketing vendors, survey services, social media, conferences and other events that we or others organize, and other sources to the extent permitted by applicable law. We use this information to market our Services to you, to maintain and correct our records, to add data fields, and to enhance the marketing, delivery, and support of our Services to you.

We collect personal information as part of our content collection process for some of our products. We obtain this from a variety of sources, including third-party content providers, public filings, direct communication with your employer or appointor, and websites to display within some of our products.

The automotive business collects and compiles motor vehicle registration and title information to provide products and services to authorized entities pursuant to 18 U.S.C.A. §2721 and similar state laws governing the use of such information. Consumer information from motor vehicle records is used in compliance with the governing laws and regulations and thus not used by S&P Global or provided to other entities for direct marketing purposes. To access or correct your motor vehicle registration and/or title information, you must contact your state's department of motor vehicles or other state agency that processes motor vehicle titles and registration. The American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators maintains links to state motor vehicle agency websites, organized by AAMVA regions.

We also may use your personal information for other purposes that we explain to you at the time we collect your personal information or, if permitted by applicable data protection laws, that are compatible with the purposes we have disclosed to you (such as archiving purposes in the public interest, scientific or historical research purposes, or statistical purposes).

S&P Global policies, procedures and standards require that the information in its products is updated for accuracy on a regular basis and removed from its systems when such data becomes obsolete or inaccurate. S&P Global has established information governance standards for collection, use and retention of personal information.

To the extent we maintain and use personal information in a deidentified or anonymized form, we will not attempt to reidentify the information, except for the purpose of determining whether our deidentification/anonymization processes satisfy our legal obligations.

4. Other personal information collected through our mobile apps

When you download, access or otherwise use one of our mobile apps, the information that we collect depends on your device, in-app and operating system permissions. Our apps may require access to applications and/or data on your mobile device to function. When you agree, some of our apps collect the precise geo-location of your mobile device and some of our apps also collect information that may be personal information about you or others, from or about:

- Your calendar
- Your contacts and call information
- The accounts and other apps on your mobile device
- Photos (including date, time, location and contents)
- Media files, metadata and other stored information

We may also automatically collect app logs and usage statistics. For example, we may record when you open an app so that we can monitor which app is used, when and how, and if the app stops working, we log the "crash data," such as whether you have mobile reception, to help us identify and fix the cause.

To learn more about the specific information collected by any of our mobile apps, please check your device settings or review the platform from which you downloaded it. To stop collection of all information through one of our apps, please uninstall the app.

+ When does S&P Global Disclose my Personal Information?

The categories of personal information listed in the S&P Global "What personal information does S&P Global collect and why?" section above may be disclosed to the following categories of recipients:

Our group companies and our joint venture companies where applicable, service providers including without limitation professional advisers or consultants such as lawyers, bankers, auditors, accountants and insurers providing consultancy, legal, banking, audit, accounting or insurance services, financial institutions providing finance to us, external auditors, product content providers, website administrators, survey conductors, technical support providers, providers of payment processing services, service providers that assist in the fulfillment of orders, business partners and any organization that arranges your access to our products or services (if that is not you).

We share personal information with those authorized parties referred to above for purposes consistent with those described in this Policy or as notified to you when your personal information is collected. For example, we may share your personal information with the organization that arranges your access to our products or services to fulfill its contractual obligations and to provide our products and services, support, and training for them. We may share your personal information with our service providers and business partners for the purpose of operating our business, honoring a request that you have made through the products or services, delivering, improving and customizing our products or Services, sending marketing and communications related to our business, payment processing, and for other legitimate purposes permitted by applicable law or otherwise with your consent. In certain circumstances where your personal information has been collected for marketing purposes and where permitted by applicable law, we may share the personal information with business partners in the ad tech sector for their own commercial marketing purposes. We may share the contact information you provide when registering for an event and share event attendee lists between our S&P Global divisions and with our webinar and conference partners, to ensure that your contact information is up to date and to administer, secure, and seek feedback on and promote our events.

For a list of our current group companies and related companies, please see our latest filings here. A list of our categories of service providers, content providers and business partners is available here.

In addition to the purposes described in this Policy, personal information handled by our service providers may be subject to their terms of use and privacy policies, which if applicable, will be provided to you. Please review any applicable service provider's terms of use and privacy policies to better understand how they manage your personal information.

Your employer

We may provide personal information to your employer for purposes such as to fulfill and enforce our contract with them, to inform them of potential group training needs, to inform them of Service use by certain categories of users and for pricing purposes.

Competent law enforcement bodies, regulatory, government agency, court or other third parties

We may provide personal information to any competent law enforcement body, regulatory, government agency, court or other third party in accordance with applicable law and regulation when we believe disclosure is necessary (i) as a matter of applicable law or regulation, (ii) to protect against fraud or for risk management purposes, (iii) to cooperate with relevant agencies for the investigation and prevention of crimes such as insider trading, (iv) to exercise, establish or defend our legal rights, (v) to protect your vital interests or those of any other person, or (vi) to protect the interests, rights, safety or property of us or others.

S&P Global is regulated by various federal and state agencies, authorities and similar regulatory bodies internationally and, in the normal course of business, both in the United States of America and abroad, is the subject of government and regulatory proceedings, investigations and inquiries. We may therefore disclose your information to comply with a court order, government request or other legal or regulatory process, sometimes without prior notice to you.

Our SEC filings set this out in more detail and are available here.

Potential Buyers

We may provide personal information to a potential buyer or a target (and that third party's or our agents and advisers) in connection with any proposed sale, purchase, merger, transfer, acquisition or liquidation or similar event, of all or any part of our businesses. If such a change happens to our business, the buyer or target will use your personal information in the same way as set out in this Policy or will inform you about how it will use your personal information as required by applicable law.

Other third parties

Personal information that you disclose on message boards, chat areas or social media pages or in direct messages to other users of these platforms may be collected and used by third parties to contact you, to send you unsolicited messages or for other purposes without our knowledge or control. Social media forums and chat rooms not operated by us may have additional rules and conditions. We are not responsible for the personal information or any other information you choose to submit on these forums that are not controlled by us.

The Services may offer you the ability to share personal information through a social networking site (e.g., Facebook, Twitter) using integrated tools (e.g., Facebook "Like" button, or Twitter "Tweet" button). The use of such integrated tools enables you to share personal information about yourself with other individuals or the public, depending on the settings that you have established with such social networking site. For more information about the purpose and scope of data collection and use in connection with such social networking sites or a site's integrated tools, please visit the privacy policies of the entities that provide these social networking sites.

We encourage you to use caution when publicly disclosing your personal information.

Other disclosures with your consent

We may ask for your consent to share your information with other unaffiliated third parties who are not described elsewhere in this Policy.

+ What is our legal basis for processing personal information?

Our legal basis for collecting and processing personal information depends on the personal information concerned, the context in which we collect it and the applicable laws and regulations.

Generally, we collect personal information from you where: we have your consent to do so; we need the personal information to perform a contract with you (for example, your subscription to one of our products) where permitted under applicable data protection laws; or, in some jurisdictions such as the European Economic Area (“EEA”), the processing is in our legitimate interests and not overridden by your data protection interests or fundamental rights and freedoms or the processing is otherwise consistent with applicable law. In some cases, we are required by law to collect personal information from you.

If we ask you to provide personal information to comply with a legal requirement or to perform a contract with you, we will inform you whether the provision of your personal information is mandatory and the possible consequences if you do not provide your personal information.

Where we send you marketing or promotional e-mails regarding our Services from our different divisions and affiliates, we do so based on your consent, if required by applicable law.

Generally, if we collect and use your personal information in reliance on our legitimate interests (or those of a third party), this interest is to provide our Services to you and for our legitimate commercial interest (e.g., when responding to your queries, improving our Services, processing payments, advising you of product features or new releases, providing training, informing you of product maintenance, or undertaking marketing activities).

+ How does S&P Global use cookies and similar tracking technology?

Generally, we use cookies and similar tracking technology (collectively, "Cookies") in certain Services (in particular our websites and some mobile applications) to collect and use personal information about you, in order to better understand and improve the usability, performance, and effectiveness of our Services, to help us tailor content or offers for you, and to serve our targeted, interest-based advertising. These technologies may also allow certain third parties to collect information about you over time and across different websites, such as information about you clicking on advertisements or installing our Services. Where permitted by applicable law, we will deploy first party performance or analytics Cookies automatically when you visit our websites. Where required by applicable law, we will obtain your consent before we place any Cookies on your device that are not strictly necessary for the functioning of our websites. To learn more, including about how to consent to or opt-out and withdraw your consent to Cookies, please see our Cookie Notice.

We may use Google Analytics to better understand how visitors use our Services. Google Analytics provides us with information about users of our Services. Google Analytics uses Cookies that Google or its affiliate DoubleClick recognizes when you visit other websites and applications. For more information about how Google collects, uses, and shares your information, including information collected through our Services, please visit Google Privacy Policy - Partners website or see Google's own Privacy Policy.

Google Analytics uses Cookies to help us analyze how users use our Services. Personal information generated by these Cookies about your use of our Services (including your IP address) will be transmitted to and stored by Google on servers in the United States of America. On our behalf, Google will use this information to evaluate your use of our Services and will compile reports on your activity for us.

If you want to opt-out of Google Analytics, you can download and install the opt-out browser add-on developed by Google for your web browser. For more information about Google Analytics' currently available opt-outs, please see <https://tools.google.com/dlpage/gaoptout>.

Some browsers allow you to send a “Do Not Track” signal that lets you tell websites you do not want to have your online activities tracked. Because there is no consistent industry understanding of how to respond to such signals, we do not respond to browser-initiated “Do No-Track” signals. We will however treat any opt-out preference signal as valid opt-out request where required under applicable law. For more information, please see “What are your data protection rights?”

+How does S&P Global keep my personal information secure?

We protect personal information that we process with appropriate technical and organizational measures designed to provide a level of security appropriate to the risk of processing your personal information. We will notify you about any security incident involving your personal information through email, correspondence, telephone, push notification or other means, as required by applicable law. If you think your data is the subject of a security incident and we have not notified you, or if you are concerned about the security of your data, please contact our dedicated security team at security@spglobal.com.

+How does S&P Global treat international data transfers?

Your personal information may be transferred to, and processed outside, the jurisdiction in which you reside. These other jurisdictions may have data protection laws that are different from the laws of the jurisdiction of your residence (and, in some cases, not as protective).

S&P Global is a multi-national group with headquarters in New York, United States of America. Our servers may be located outside of the jurisdiction where we collected the data. We may store and replicate your personal information on servers in other jurisdictions, in order to provide speed of access, robustness and protection against server failure.

When we collect your personal information, we may transfer it to or from any of the countries in which we do business. Our group companies, related companies, any organization that arranges your access to our products or services, service providers, product content providers and business partners, with whom we may share personal information, are located in and transfer personal information to various jurisdictions around the world. The principal jurisdictions where personal information is processed or hosted by or on behalf of S&P Global are the United States of America, Canada, the United Kingdom, Germany, the Republic of Ireland, Italy, France, Switzerland, the Netherlands, India, Malaysia and Singapore. In some cases, your personal information may also be accessed from outside of the jurisdiction where we collected the data, such as the Philippines, Pakistan, Mexico, China, Japan, and Australia, where our back-office support personnel are located for certain Divisions.

Where your personal information is transferred by us or on our behalf, we implement appropriate safeguards to protect your personal information in accordance with this Policy. These safeguards include implementing applicable standard contractual clauses for transfers of personal information between our group companies, which require group companies to protect personal information they transfer from the jurisdiction in which it was collected in accordance with applicable data protection law.

Where required by applicable law, international transfers take place only when there is an adequate level of protection for the fundamental data protection rights of individuals. In some circumstances, we may choose to rely upon an adequate decision to lawfully transfer personal information. Standard contractual clauses are one of several mechanisms that allow for personal information to be transferred across jurisdictional borders, and we may rely on these for transfers to and from our affiliates, vendors and business partners where applicable. Additional safeguards may also be implemented where personal information is transferred. Please contact us to request a copy of our appropriate safeguards.

+ For how long does S&P Global retain personal information?

Our applicable information governance policies, procedures and standards require that personal information be retained for as long as we have an ongoing legitimate business need to do so (for example, to provide you with a Service you have requested, or to comply with applicable legal, tax or accounting requirements).

Once we no longer have a legitimate business need to process your personal information, our applicable information governance policies, procedures and standards require that we either delete or anonymize your personal information, or if deletion or anonymization is not possible, then pseudonymize and/or securely store your personal information and isolate it from any further processing until deletion is possible.

If you have any questions or require any further information about the period of time for which we will process your personal information, please contact us using the contact details in the “How to contact us?” section below.

+What are your data protection rights?

Depending on which laws apply to your personal information, you may have the right to make the following requests regarding your personal information:

- Access to Your Personal Information. You may request access to your personal information, confirmation that we have information about you, or information about our processing of your personal information which may include, depending on your jurisdiction the right to request: the categories of personal information we process or have processed about you, a list of the specific third parties with whom your personal data was disclosed, or access to your data in a portable, machine-readable format. Some jurisdictions also provide you with the right to request the categories of personal information sold or disclosed for a business purpose and categories of third parties to which personal information was sold. Further information about this right is provided below in the United States of America Addendum.
- Deletion of Your Personal Information. You may request that we delete your personal information. If required by law, we will grant a request to delete information, but you should note that in many situations we may keep the personal information to comply with our legal obligations, resolve disputes, enforce our agreements, or for another business purposes.
- Corrections to Your Personal Information. We rely on you to update and correct your personal information. Where your personal information is required to access or use Services, you may have the opportunity to correct, update, or modify this information by logging into your account and updating your information online. You may ask us to correct information that is inaccurate or incomplete. Note that we may keep historical information in our backup files as permitted by law.
- Objection to Certain Processing. You may object to our use or disclosure of your personal information.
- Opt-out of Targeted Advertising. You may opt-out of online tracking based targeted advertising or cross-context behavioral advertising (e.g., cookies) by clicking the cookie settings link on the footer of our websites. Please note that if you change browsers or computers, or if you clear your browser's cache, you may need to click the link again to apply your preference.
- Opt-out of Sale. You may opt-out of the sale of your personal information by clicking here or the “Do Not Sell My Personal Information” link on our homepage.
- Restrict Processing. You may request that we restrict our processing of your personal information under certain circumstances, such as when you contest the accuracy of our records about you, or you make an objection.
- Promotional Emails. You may choose to provide us with your email address for the purpose of allowing us to send free newsletters, surveys, offers, and other promotional materials to you, as well as targeted offers from third parties. You can stop receiving promotional emails by following the unsubscribe or “opt-out” instructions in emails that you receive, by visiting our preference center here. If you decide not to receive promotional emails, we may still send you service-related communications.
- Revocation Of Consent. Where we process your personal information based upon consent, you may revoke consent. Withdrawing your consent will not affect the lawfulness of any processing we conducted before withdrawal, nor will it affect processing of your personal information conducted in reliance on lawful processing grounds other than consent. Please note, if you revoke your consent for the processing of your personal information then we may no longer be able to provide services to you.

Please note, not all of the rights described above are absolute, and they do not apply in all circumstances. In some cases, we may limit or deny your request because the law permits or requires us to do so, because a right is not granted by the laws that apply to a specific person, or if we are unable to adequately verify your identity. Individuals in certain jurisdictions may have other rights. For more information, see the applicable jurisdiction specific addendum which forms part of this Policy. We will not discriminate against individuals who exercise their privacy rights under applicable law.

You may use this Personal Information Request Form or call us on 1-855-529-1761 to exercise any of your rights. If you disagree with how we handled a request, you may appeal our decision by contacting us with the subject line "Appeal," at privacy@spglobal.com.

We respond to requests we receive from individuals wishing to exercise their data protection rights or express any concern in accordance with applicable data protection laws, which typically require a response within 30 days. Please be aware that in order to accommodate some requests, we must verify your identity before we can respond, and this may require you to provide photographic or other forms of identification to us.

In some circumstances, you may designate an authorized agent to submit requests to exercise certain privacy rights on your behalf. If you are an authorized agent submitting a request on behalf of an individual, you must provide all requested information establishing your authorization as an agent to act on another person's behalf, where permitted by applicable law.

If you are not satisfied with our response, you may have the right to lodge a complaint with your local supervisory authority. Contact details for data protection authorities in the EEA, Canada, Switzerland and the UK are available here.

Please note that in certain jurisdictions we may be entitled to charge a fee in connection with the exercise of these rights, which will be communicated to you if applicable.

Product Specific - Additional Provisions

This Product-Specific Addendum provides specific supplemental information for certain products and services and supplements the Policy. In case of any inconsistencies between this Product-Specific Addendum and the rest of this Policy, this Product-Specific Addendum prevails.

Log- in details including name and email address	To provide the Platts LIVE services and functionalities to you, including to register you for events or to provide you with access to any learning materials we make available	For our legitimate interests in providing the Platts LIVE platform to you and enabling us to provide the platform services to you effectively, including access to any learning materials we make available. In certain jurisdictions, such as the PRC, we process personal information only if we have obtained your consent or if such processing is necessary for us to perform the Term of Use and/or other contracts with you.

We also collect some data automatically from you during your use of the Platts LIVE platform, as further described in the “What Personal Information Does S&P Global Collect and Why” section of this Privacy Policy.

+ Who does S&P Global share your Platts LIVE personal information with?

We may share the personal information you have provided in connection with your use of the Platts LIVE platform between our S&P divisions and with our webinar and conference partners so that we can send marketing and communications relating to our business and allow you to access or register for events provided by other S&P divisions.

Your Platts LIVE profile, and the personal information that you include in it, will also be accessible to all other Platts LIVE users. Personal information that you disclose on forum discussions, or any other public area of the platform will also be accessible to other Platts LIVE users. You may also directly disclose personal information to other users when privately messaging other Platts LIVE users.

Where the Personal Information Protection Law ("PIPL") applies, we will obtain your separate consent (i) before we share your personal information with our S&P divisions (where they are separate data controllers) and our webinar and conference partners, and, (ii) in particular, where our S&P divisions and our webinar and conference partners are located outside of the PRC, before we export your personal information from the PRC (or otherwise before providing or granting access to your personal information stored in the PRC to overseas recipients). We will take the necessary measures to ensure that your personal information will be protected by the overseas recipient at a level required by law. Subject to the volume and nature of the relevant data export involving your personal information, we will carry out such data export by virtue of a lawful transfer tool recognized by applicable law including standard contract, certification, and/or a security assessment.

Please see the "When does S&P Global Disclose my Personal Information" section of this Policy for further details of when your data may be disclosed to certain recipients.

+ What are your Rights?

In addition to the rights described in "What are your data protection rights?" section of this Policy, to the extent that PIPL applies to our processing of your personal information, you may also be entitled to (i) request for the transfer of your personal information to other data controllers, where conditions set by the Cyberspace Administration of China ("CAC") have been met, and, (ii) to request for explanation or elaboration of this Policy and any other rules on the processing of your personal information hereunder.

+ What happens if this Corporate Privacy Policy is updated?

We review and update this Policy from time to time. When we do, we will bring those updates to your attention, for example, by noting the date of the version on the Policy, posting the updated version here or sending you a notification. To the extent that this Policy changes in a material way, the Policy that was in place at the time that you submitted personal information to us will generally govern that information unless we receive your consent to the new policy.

+How to contact us?

+China

This China Addendum ("China Addendum") applies to the processing of your personal information only if you are located in the People's Republic of China ("China") and supplements this Policy. In case of any inconsistencies between this China Addendum and the rest of this Policy, this China addendum prevails.

1. Sensitive Personal Information. Your personal information whose leakage or unlawful use may easily infringe the dignity of a natural person, or cause harm to the personal safety or property security, including biometric characteristics, religious beliefs, specially designated status, medical health, financial accounts, personal whereabouts and personal information of minors under the age of 14 may be considered as sensitive personal information in accordance with applicable Chinese law and regulations ("Sensitive Personal Information"). To the extent we collect this Sensitive Personal Information, we will only process it to the extent necessary for fulfilling the purposes as stated in this Policy and will take measures for its security. Where required by applicable Chinese law and regulations, we will obtain your separate consent before we process your sensitive personal information and comply with requisite requirements under Personal Information Protection Law (PIPL).
2. Sale of business. We may provide personal information to a potential buyer or target (and that third party's or our agents and advisers) in connection with any proposed purchase, merger, transfer, acquisition or liquidation or similar event of all or any part of our business. If such a change happens to our business, the buyer or target will use your personal information in the same way as set out in this Policy including this China addendum or will inform you about how it will use your personal information as required by applicable law, or (where applicable) require such third party to obtain your consent again.
3. Notifications. We cannot absolutely guarantee the security of any information or data you provide online. In the event of a security incident, we will take mitigation measures in accordance with our incident response plan and report to competent regulators in China as required by applicable law. In the event of a security incident affecting your personal information, we will notify you as required by applicable law through email, correspondence, telephone, push notification or other means. If you think your data is the subject of a security incident and we have not notified you, or if you are concerned about the security of your data, please contact our dedicated security team at security@spglobal.com.
4. Contact Information of our China DPO. You may contact our China Data Protection Officer at privacy@spglobal.com or, at: 49/F, Fortune Financial Center, No.5, Dongsanhuan Zhong Rd, Chaoyang District, Beijing. You may also exercise your rights in relation to personal information transferred overseas or request closure of an account which is registered with S&P Global through the method specified under the section of this Policy titled, "What are your data protection rights?"

+Japan

S&P Global Market Intelligence Privacy Notice for Japan

S&P Global Market Intelligence's inclusion of your business contact information in our resources for capital markets professionals.

S&P Global Market Intelligence, a division of S&P Global, Inc., with its registered address at 55 Water Street, New York, NY 10041, United States (President and CEO: Doug Peterson), has collected your business contact information (such as your name, job title and/or function, business phone number, business postal address and business email address) ("Information") from multiple sources, from your counterparties throughout the global capital markets community, or from you, as described below, to include within our comprehensive resource of contacts in the global capital markets community.

About the S&P Global Market Intelligence Data

S&P Global Market Intelligence data allows investors and capital markets professionals to work more efficiently in the market by helping to identify the appropriate recipients to receive information in connection with a particular financial opportunity. Capital markets professionals greatly benefit from having their Information conveniently available in our resources.

The primary purpose of the data is to provide the S&P Global Market Intelligence clients with a comprehensive resource regarding individuals and companies in the global capital markets community (“Capital Markets Participants”), which they may use to facilitate relevant business-to-business communication and information exchange with such contacts (see “How We Share Your Information” below) and for marketing of S&P Global Market Intelligence products and services (see “Marketing” below).

Please review this Privacy Notice to understand how S&P Global Market Intelligence processes your Information, including how we collect, use, and store your Information.

To enable S&P Global Market Intelligence to maintain the accuracy of its data and to ensure we comply with your jurisdiction's data privacy laws.

We encourage you to review your Information. To update your Information, please use the link in “Your Information and opt-out” below.

If you prefer that we do not process your Information as described in this Privacy Notice, you may opt-out by using the options set out in “Your Information and opt-out” below.

We may translate this Privacy Notice into other languages. If there are any inconsistencies between the English version and any other language version of this Privacy Notice, the English version will prevail.

About Us

S&P Global Market Intelligence and its affiliates are collectively referred to in this privacy notice as “S&P Global Market Intelligence”, “we”, “us” or “our.”

S&P Global, Inc. (NYSE: SPGI) provides essential intelligence. We enable governments, businesses and individuals with the right data, expertise and connected technology so that they can make decisions with conviction. From helping our customers assess new investments to guiding them through ESG and energy transition across supply chains, we unlock new opportunities, solve challenges, and accelerate progress for the world.

We are widely sought after by many of the world's leading organizations to provide credit ratings, benchmarks, analytics, and workflow solutions in the global capital, commodity and automotive markets. With every one of our offerings, we help the world's leading organizations plan for tomorrow, today.

S&P Global Market Intelligence is a business division of S&P Global, Inc. (“SPGI”). SPGI also has other divisions such as: S&P Dow Jones Indices, S&P Global Commodity Insights, S&P Global Mobility, and S&P Global Ratings, each of which provides different products and services. S&P Global Market Intelligence keeps the activities of its business divisions separate from each other in order to preserve the independence and objectivity of their activities in accordance with the S&P Global Divisional Independence and Objectivity Policy. S&P Global's Market Intelligence division (“SPGMI”) produces information including price assessments and indices. SPGMI maintains clear structural and operational separation between its price assessment activities and the other activities carried out by S&P Global Market Intelligence and the other business divisions of SPGI to safeguard the quality, independence and integrity of its price assessments and indices and ensure they are free from any actual or perceived conflicts of interest.

What Information we Collect and Process

S&P Global Market Intelligence data contains information relating to Capital Markets Participants. We may collect and process any or all of the following types of Information about you: name, age, gender, company association, telephone number (general or direct business numbers, faxes, and/or mobile numbers), business email address, job title and/or -function, office address, work and education history, professional affiliations, public and private markets investments, -holdings and coverage, compensation, insider holdings and -activity, professional board- and committee memberships, as well as links to social media and professional networking sites.

How We Collect and Use Your Business Contact Information

We may collect your Information via:

- our research department, typically using publicly available sources – including content made public on professional network websites, other websites, public regulatory filings and public news sources;
- from your counterparties throughout the global capital markets community;
- from your company's website; or
- from conversations with you or other employees at your company.

In using public sources, we will collect only the necessary Information for the purposes described in this Privacy Notice and will review and verify all Information we collect from such sources.

We process the Information to compile the S&P Global Market Intelligence data. We then market the data to clients (both inside and outside of your jurisdiction), who license our products and services.

We may also use your Information to contact you in order to:

- verify the Information we collect about you from public sources; and
- obtain information from you on behalf of our clients – for example, compliance certificates in connection with the capital markets transactions in which you participate on behalf of your employer.

We may be required to process your Information in compliance with any applicable law, including any information privacy legislation in another country.

How We Share and Store Your Information

As described above, we may share or license your Information (as set out in “Information we Collect and Process” section above) via our products:

- internally within our family of affiliate companies pursuant to our internal data transfer arrangements; or
- externally to unaffiliated third parties so that they may use such Information for the purpose of contacting you regarding capital markets opportunities relevant to your business. These unaffiliated third-party capital market professionals (including banks, public and private companies, institutional and individual investors, research, asset management and wealth management firms) may contact you about their products and services in connection with particular market transactions or financial opportunities that they think may be relevant to your organization and/or business.

Such sharing of your Information will be in accordance with this Privacy Notice, and we will use reasonable efforts to enter into arrangements that require such third parties to limit their use of your Information to those consistent with this Privacy Notice, unless they obtain your consent to use your Information for any other purpose.

We will stop providing your Information to third parties for use as described above if and once you inform us of your opt-out request by following the instructions in “Your Information and opt-out” below. You may also ask any third party from whom you receive communication to stop processing your Information and to opt-out from their marketing or any other communication. Please note that we are not responsible or liable for any third party's data privacy policies, acts, or omissions.

The storing of your Information in our resources, and sharing your Information with, or licensing your Information to, third parties as described above, may involve the transfer of your Information outside your jurisdiction. When we transfer your Information outside of your jurisdiction, we will put in place an adequate level of protection to ensure that any such transfers comply with applicable data protection laws in your jurisdiction. Where the transfer of data is subject to the Applicable Data Protection Law of the People's Republic of China (Personal Information Protection Law), the China Standard Contract shall apply. "China Standard Contract" shall mean the Standard Contract on Cross-Border Transfer of Personal Information issued by the Cyberspace Administration of China on February 24, 2023.

Our Direct Marketing Communication to You

We may use your Information for the following marketing and promotional purposes:

- contacting you regarding updates on latest news, offers and promotions in connection with our products and services, including financial services technology, data, analytics, and software solutions; and
- sending you product-related news and direct marketing communication that we believe may be of interest to your organization and/or business.

We may contact you for such direct marketing purposes via email, mail, or by telephone.

You can opt-out from receiving these direct marketing communication by following the instructions in "Your Information and Opt-out" below.

Please note that regardless of whether you opt-out from receiving direct marketing, we may still:

- need to process Information in order to ensure that you receive no further marketing communication from us; and
- send you important administrative messages as part of your ongoing use of our products and services.

Security and Retention of Your Information

We retain your Information for as long as we reasonably require it for legal, business, or contractual purposes. In determining data retention periods, we take into consideration local laws, contractual obligations, our reasonable business requirements and your expectations and requirements. When the purposes for retaining your Information are achieved and we no longer need your Information, we will securely delete or destroy it. Please note that we may still be required to retain your Information in order for us to comply with applicable laws and regulations, and in certain cases it may not be technically possible to delete your Information (e.g., where your Information is contained within our internal archival records).

We are committed to maintaining the security of your Information. We employ reasonable organizational, technical, and administrative measures to secure and protect your Information from misuse and unauthorized access, disclosure, alteration and destruction. We permit persons working for us to access and use your Information only to serve legitimate business needs consistent with this Privacy Notice.

Your Rights

You have the right to access the Information that we process about you and to request that we correct or amend it (if you consider that it is inaccurate or incomplete) or delete it (if you consider that we do not have the right to hold it). You also have the right to object to your data being processed in a particular situation and to data portability (moving your Information elsewhere). These rights may not apply in some cases and, if you make a request, we shall inform you if that is the case. If you would like to exercise your rights, you can submit a written request to data.preferences@spglobal.com.

We will investigate and attempt to resolve any complaints or disputes we receive regarding the processing of your Information. You may also have the right to make a complaint to your local Data Protection Authority.

Please follow the instructions in “Your Information and Opt-out” below if you would like to access, correct, or amend your Information or request deletion of your Information.

Your Information and Opt-Out

To access, correct or amend your Information, to subscribe or opt-out from email communication, to amend your opt-out preferences, or to request deletion of your Information please follow the directions in the notice that was sent to you. If you have any questions or if you cannot locate the notice that was sent to you, please contact data.preferences@spglobal.com.

Please note that if you do opt-out from any of the options, we may not be able to remove your Information from the data of third parties with whom we have already shared your Information and we may still need to process limited Information in order to ensure that you receive no further marketing communication from us.

How to Update and Keep Your Information Accurate

We will respond to your request to update your Information. We strive to keep your Information accurate and up to date through our collection of your Information in accordance with “How We Collect and Use Your Business Contact Information” above. New information will be combined with existing information and outdated or incorrect information will be removed.

When We Started to Provide Information?

From April 1, 2022, S&P Global, Inc., has been subject to the Act on the Protection of Personal Information of Japan (Act No. 57 of 2003, as amended) (“Act”). We have been providing your Information in accordance with the Act from April 1, 2022, onwards.

How to Contact Us

Your questions, comments and feedback are very important to us. For privacy-related issues or questions, please contact us at data.preferences@spglobal.com.

+United States of America (California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Iowa, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oregon, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Virginia)

This United States of America Addendum (“US Addendum”) supplements this Policy and applies in relation to the processing of personal information of residents of the State of California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Indiana, Iowa, Montana, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Oregon, Tennessee, Texas, Utah and Virginia by S&P Global. In case of any inconsistencies between this US Addendum and the rest of this Policy, this US Addendum prevails where applicable.

Certain information we collect may be exempt from applicable US State privacy laws because it is considered public information (i.e., it is made available by a government entity) or covered by a federal privacy law, such as the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act, the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act, the Fair Credit Reporting Act or the Driver Privacy Protection Act.

Your Privacy Rights and How to Submit a Request

Subject to certain limitations and depending on your state of residence, you have certain rights with respect to your personal information, as described in the “What are your data protection rights?” section of the Policy.

To submit a request to exercise your rights (or to submit a request on behalf of a consumer as an authorized agent):

- For right to know, access, correct, or deletion requests, complete and submit the Data Request Form or call us at 1-855-529-1761.
- For opt-out of targeted advertising requests, visit “Do Not Share My Personal Information”. Please note that if you change browsers or devices, or if you clear your browser’s cache, you may need to click the link again to apply your preference.
- For opt-out of sale requests, visit "Do Not Sell My Personal Information" or call us at 1-855-529-1761. 1761.

Depending on the nature of the request, we may reach out to you for more information, such as to request a copy of your driver’s license, to authenticate your identity. If you are submitting a request on behalf of a consumer as an authorized agent, you will need to provide a copy of the Authorized Agent Designation Form signed by the consumer.

If you wish to appeal a decision or action regarding a request to exercise submitted through one of the mechanisms described above, please contact us at privacy@spglobal.com.

We also recognize Global Privacy Control (GPC) signals and other user-enabled opt-out preference signals as valid opt-out requests where required by applicable law. Please note that your opt-out preference signal will be applied only to your current browser and device. To learn more about the GPC, you can visit its website here.

For information about the requests we receive under California law, including the number of requests and the average number of days we’ve taken to respond to requests, please click here.

California "Shine the Light" Law

Residents of the State of California also have the right to request information regarding third parties to whom the company has disclosed certain categories of personal information during the preceding year for the third parties' direct marketing purposes.

Information Collection and Disclosures

The following is a summary of our data collection practices, including the personal information we collect, whether we disclose that information for business purpose, and whether we "sell" and/or "share" for cross-context behavioral advertising (also referred to as targeted advertising) (as those terms are defined by applicable law). We may use all of the information for any of the purposes described in the Policy unless limitations are listed. S&P Global "shares" or "sells" personal information to third parties in very limited circumstances. To learn more about what brands share or sell personal information, please see below. As discussed elsewhere in the Privacy Policy, we use cookies and similar tracking technologies for purposes of targeted advertising. For more information, please see our Cookie Notice. +Brazil

This Brazil Addendum ("Brazil Addendum") supplements this Policy to the extent that the General Data Protection Law of Brazil ("LGPD") applies in relation to the processing of personal information by S&P Global. In case of any inconsistencies between this Brazil Addendum and the rest of this Policy, this Brazil Addendum prevails.

Under the LGPD, you have the right to:

- confirm the existence of processing of your personal data;
- access your personal data;
- correct incomplete, inaccurate, or out of date personal data;
- anonymize, block, or delete unnecessary or excessive personal data or personal data that is not being processed in compliance with the LGPD;
- portability of your personal data to another service or product provider, by means of an express request;
- delete personal data processed with your consent;
- information about public and private entities with which we have shared your personal data;
- information about the possibility of denying consent and the consequences of such denial;
- revoke consent;
- request review of decisions taken solely on the basis of automated processing of personal data that affects your interests.

You or an authorized agent may exercise your rights through the Personal Data Request Form. The LGPD also provides that you may file a complaint regarding your data directly with the Brazilian data protection regulator.
